Five youths who attended a picnic near Lowell, Mass., last Sunday, on returning home, got up on top of the cars, and that these sheep, galled upon the cotton field, would so fertilize the soil as to double the crop of cotton on any given acre of upland.

Mr. Edward Atkinson has written a letter on the progress of cotton growing in the south during the war, in which he says the fifteen steps of free labor exceed the fifteen last steps made by the labor of slaves by 9,000,000, worth in gold coin fully $800,000,000. The crop of the present year is to exceed the average of 15,000,000, or even 16,000,000, the average of the fifteen ante-war crops, and at least 25 per cent in excess of the largest crop ever raised by the labor of slaves.

Mr. Atkinson thinks that "the present power of King Cotton is but the shadow of the substance yet to come."

He says it may soon supersede the work of a visionary to compute the value of the seed.

He estimates that about the value of the cotton is to be obtained annually, by the waste of the cotton oil press, with other wastes of the cotton field.

Five thousand sheep, galled upon the cotton field, would so fertilize the soil as to double the crop of cotton on any given acre of upland.

Mr. George Doty went to the woods
